To Whom It Concerns,

Neal Peacock delivered a speech to my team of business students at Snow College. Not only was he a phenomenal exemplar of the qualities it takes to be a leader, but an excellent professor of them. It is relatively uncommon for such an enthusiastic, organized and persistent speaker to be so willing to volunteer to a club of young adult students.

The speech itself was a delight to follow because of the notes he gave us beforehand and the involvement that the students felt in his stories. His use of presentation and teaching skills brought the hefty subject matter to a level of our understanding. Neal really brought some insight to the future businessmen and women of Snow College and therefore has my recommendation to speak in your seminar or event.
